7.4.4 Welsh Government grant funding

Overview

The Welsh Government offers a wide range of grants to organisations across Wales such as local authorities, Community Safety Partnerships and the voluntary sector. The grants are used to deliver services that meet the needs of the public in Wales, such as improving housing, reducing homelessness, promoting community safety and regenerating areas of deprivation.

This information sheet contains details of the grant schemes offered by the Welsh Government either directly or, via independent bodies. There is a brief summary of each scheme and contact details.

The Aggregates Levy Sustainability Fund for Wales

The Aggregates Levy was introduced by the Finance Act 2001, which came into effect in April 2002. Part of the money generated by the Levy has been used to set up a Sustainability Fund to address the environmental costs associated with aggregate extraction. In Wales, the Fund is used to address issues specific to Wales:

- Legacy of old minerals permissions.
- Promoting the use of alternative materials to aggregates.
- Reducing the impact of aggregate extraction.
- Environmental and amenity benefits to communities affected by aggregate extraction.
- Conserving sites of special interest.
- Educational projects.

Funding is available for projects that address the above issues and meet the criteria set out in the information packs. Potential applicants are advised to discuss proposed projects prior to submitting an application.

Funding from other Government-related funds

There are a range of miscellaneous sources of Government-related funding and include funds administered by voluntary bodies such as Wales Council for Voluntary Action and county voluntary councils.

ENTRUST

Landfill Tax Credit Scheme (LTCS)

Whilst not strictly Government-funded, this grant scheme permits landfill operators to support a wide range of environmental projects by giving them a 90% tax credit against their donations to environmental projects. Landfill tax credits must be spent in compliance with the landfill tax regulations.

HM Revenue and Customs have announced that the Landfill Tax Credit Scheme is changing its name to the Landfill Communities Fund.

ENTRUST does not fund any works within the LTCS. ENTRUST's role is strictly regulatory and they cannot compel any landfill operator to fund a particular project.

It is, however, charged with enrolling, monitoring and auditing organisations that have enrolled with ENTRUST as Environmental Bodies. These distributive bodies help other groups access landfill tax credits.

There are a number of routes to accessing funding. Organisations do not need to be charitable although they must be non-profit distributing and any surplus must be used to further fund your organisation's objectives.

Communities Investment Fund

The first phase of the Communities Investment Fund (CIF) was active from 2006 to 2008. It provided flexible loan investments supported by development grant assistance. A new £6 million fund is currently at an advanced stage of development, and it is envisaged that funds will be available early in 2011.

The new fund will provide £2 million of general funds, available for mixed investment purposes, for example property and asset development, revenue/working capital costs and start up costs.

£4 million will be allocated to Invest to Serve, a fund available to organisations seeking to develop income generation from delivery of public sector services, through contracting and service level agreements.

The new fund will continue to help build the financial sustainability of independent community-based social enterprises and non-profit distributing organisations located in convergence areas, that are unable to access commercial finance and are able to demonstrate positive financial and social returns on investment.
